CABO PULMO MARINE PARK EAST CAPE

Jacques Cousteau proclaimed to be “the aquarium of the world”.

Cabo Pulmo National Marine Park is one of only three coastal reefs in North America and the only coral reef in the Sea of Cortes. Its abundance of sea life allows the park to be a member of the UNESCO World Heritage List.

The reef, estimated to be 20,000 years old, has a number of fingers of hard coral atop rock outcroppings that run parallel to the coast occurring in progressively deeper water offshore.

Today, Cabo Pulmo National Marine Park is one of the most fruitful examples of marine conservation in Mexico. Cabo Pulmo’s reef is called an “Ocean Miracle”.

SURFING TRIPS & LESSONS

SEA OF CORTEZ + PACIFIC OCEAN

With its relatively easy, consistent, warm-water waves and beautiful desert landscape – Cabo has become a kind of surfing Disneyland. We will take you to the best surfing spot with the best guides of Baja.

Cabo is generally divided into three main areas: the south-facing East Cape, which lies to the east of San Jose Del Cabo and is most famous for its proliferation of fickle, silky right pointbreaks; the southeast-facing Costa Azul, just southwest of San Jose del Cabo, right on the tip of the peninsula between the Pacific Ocean and the Sea of Cortez, which is known for its consistent rock reef breaks; and the west-facing Pacific Coast, northwest of Cabo San Lucas, which is known best for its dependable beach and rock-reef breaks.

Los Cabos offers ideal conditions to make this experience one you will remember forever.
